

The Important Role of the African American People in History

When we see some racism actions on the green field that were happened to many football players, we couldn't do anything about that. But somehow, we are concerning about some stupid people that still consider the skin color as their judgment to see other people. That would be extremely stupid while some other people are trying so hard to fight the racism. As we may see, there are many efforts from many people to kick the racism out of this life. Building the African American Museum is one of the efforts to kick the racism out of the life.

In the museum, we would see the great African American ancestors that have done so much to the human race. Somehow, they have done great things that could bring the situation gets better such as today. It would be so ashamed when we have to see some stupid people ruined the situation by some racism actions. We would realize that they (the African American ancestors) have some important role in the past when we are learning about history and we visited some places like the African American Museum. We would realize that the existence of today's life is because of their efforts in the past.
